Long Bio

How much do you think you can learn about someone from their name? Not their handwriting, but just their name?

According to Sharón Lynn Wyeth, founder of Neimology® Science, you can tell their past experience, their future health concerns, their unique personality traits, their strengths, challenges and even their purpose in life. Supposedly she can tell instantly how a person really thinks, feels and behaves—regardless of what they tell you!

And she says that's because Neimology® is the science that discovers personality secrets hidden in the placement of the letters within names. Each letter in a name holds a key to unlock one's true essence. A person's name contains information about that individual's gifts and challenges. Neimology® Science can even reveal the first and last impression people remember about us.

In addition to creating Neimology® Science, Sharón has accomplishments in many fields most particularly in education, where her impact has benefited thousands of students and was highlighted in Tom Brokaw's Evening News on NBC. President George H. Bush presented a drop-out prevention program that Sharón helped to create at a conference for fifty governors. In addition, she has used her innate gift of intuition, combined with her keen skills, and reasoning mind to create Neimology® Science as an indicator to analyze an individual's personality, in the same category, yet differently than the Myers-Briggs, BRICKS, and Enneagram methodologies.

After 15 years of research followed by 3 years of testing her theories in over 70 countries, including Russia, India and China, Sharón continued to develop how to interpret names over the next twenty-two years, which is why Neimology® Science is so accurate.

Over the years, she has been able to support thousands of people around the world in understanding themselves and others better. During her travels and teaching workshops in Europe, Africa, Central America, Thailand, India, and Israel, she discovered that with only a few adjustments, the system of gaining knowledge about people by analyzing their names worked in these countries as well.

Today she assists a variety of individual business' Human Resource departments in choosing appropriate candidates to interview; assists lawyers in how to present cases to judges, and in picking their juries; and works with couples and families on how to better communicate with each other to improve their relationships. She also creates names for new business, new products and when people wish to change their name.

She is the author of three books, including the Amazon bestseller, Know the Name; Know the Person. Her new book Know the Name; Know How to Connect is being published January 7, 2019. Sharón hosts her own radio show, "Know the Name; Know the Genius in You," you can hear it on iHeart radio.
